Lesson for September 30

PAUL THE MISSIONARY

GOLDEN TEXT—Christ liveth in me.—Galatians 2:20.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Stories of Paul.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul, the Brave Missionary.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul the Dauntless.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—In Labors More Abundant.

In the review of this quarter's lesson, a good opportunity is given for character study. The interests of the quarter's lessons center in Paul, Stephen, Barnabas, John Mark, Luke, Timothy, James and Ananias. Assignments should be made a week in advance for the preparation of brief essays by the pupils.

Another method would be to lift out the principles contained in the lessons of the quarter and apply them to the important problems of the day. The following suggestions are offered:

Paul's the Ideal Education; Evidences of Genuine Conversion; What Is a True Christian? What Is the Real Missionary Spirit? Who Should Go as Missionaries? Should Religious Differences Be Compromised? If so, How Far? How to Be Assured of Divine Leading.

Perhaps the most satisfactory method for adults is to summarize the facts and state the leading lessons. The following suggestions are offered:

Lesson for July 1. Paul, by birth and education, had much to be proud of. A godly ancestry and a true education ought to be the heritage of every child.

Lesson for July 8. While Stephen ministered in the benevolences of the church he testified of Christ and met with violent opposition. The ring-leader in this opposition was Paul. A man may be conscientious and wrong.

Lesson for July 15. Paul in unbelief zealously persecuted the church, even consenting to the death of Stephen. When his eyes were opened by the appearance of Jesus Christ on the road to Damascus he was transformed into a zealous witness for Christ.

Lesson for July 22. The sight which Paul had of Christ was no real that he at once testified of His deity and saving power.

Lesson for July 29. Paul and Barnabas were sent forth by the Holy Ghost to preach the gospel to the Gentiles. They were opposed by Elymas, the sorcerer. Spirit-filled men with most surely meet with opposition.

Lesson for August 5. The preaching of Barnabas and Saul was accompanied with such wonderful signs that the people attempted to worship them as gods. The same people soon were moved to stone them. Such is the horrible resentment, Barnabas and Saul carried on their work.

Lesson for August 12. The question of the grounds upon which Gentiles were to be received was a bitterly debated. Paul preached that it was to be by faith alone. Certain Judaizing teachers taught that faith was to be supplemented by the works of the law.

Lesson for August 19. Paul was forbidden to preach in Asia; then called to preach in Europe. Divine guidance is just as really shown in closed doors as in open doors.

Lesson for August 26. When Paul's missionary work interfered with the unlawful gain of certain men at Philippi, he and Silas were sent to jail. Through their miraculous deliverance and their testimony of the saving power of Christ, the jailer was converted.

Lesson for September 2. Wicked Jews followed Paul to Thessalonica and Berea. They stirred up the people to such an extent that he had to flee. Wherever he went his ministry was accompanied by supernatural signs so as to convince the Gentiles.

Lesson for September 9. Paul preached the gospel in Corinth with such power that many were saved. The gospel is the power of God unto salvation.

Lesson for September 16. The church was threatened with disruption through party spirit. The right conception of the gospel, Christian ministers and persons constituting the church, will cure sectarianism.

Lesson for September 23. The Christian should abstain from that which might cause his brother to stumble.

Love One Another

Let us love one another whilst we live! I would speak for a kind word on behalf of those who are sitting next you and making your own house glad by their deft fingers and their loving hearts.—Joseph Parker.

Serving God

Serving God just where you are, with what you have, and nothing else. God requires nothing more; He will take nothing more. It is yourself, in your own position, wherever you are, that He wants.—Margaret Slattery.

Thy Will Be Done

To do or not to do; to have, or not to have, I leave to thee; thy only will be done in me; all my requests are lost in one, "Father, thy will be done."—Charles Wesley.

SPOUT SPRING

Quite a bit of excitement was caused by the accident here Sunday. No one was seriously injured.

Revival begins at Baptist church next Sunday.

Misses Mary and Ellen Dickerson, of Crewe, visited relatives here recently.

Mrs. C. A. Coleman, of Elkton, Va., is visiting Mrs. W. E. Dickerson.

Mrs. J. E. Chick who has been sick is better.

Miss Susie Bates is visiting her sister, Mrs. Eva Turner, in Lynchburg.

Mrs. B. M. Calhoun is visiting friends here.

Miss Sara Dickerson attended a dance at Natural Bridge Saturday night.

Mrs. Eva Turner visited Mrs. R. H. Bates Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Evans visited Mr. W. E. Dickerson recently.

Along David Creek

Farmers all busy cutting tobacco which was damaged right badly by the rain and wind storm last week. It was one of the worst storms that has been through this section for many years. Corn fodder was all destroyed nothing left but stalk.

Much excitement yesterday when we looked up in the air and saw a great city of air planes passing over going East—nine of them one behind the other in a line.

Well, fall of year is here again, the woods are lovely with all colors; but we all feel sad after the death of our good friend, Mr. A. B. Thornhill. He will be sadly missed by all, as he was highly thought of by both white and colored.

We are sad to learn that Mr Elwood Harris has lost his mind and was taken to Staunton last Tuesday by his father, Mr. John Harris and Messrs. Leonard Thornhill and John Gunter. The family have our deepest sympathy and we all pray that this young man's mind may be restored.

Mrs. J. H. Thornhill is very feeble.

Mrs. Sam Thornhill is on the sick list.

We are glad to learn that Mr. Tom Beale, who has been very ill is better. He is now with his son, Mr. Willie Beale, near Wildway.

Mrs. John Beale has been visiting her old home, she had with her little Frances.

Mrs. John Booker and Miss Olivia Booker have returned from quite a stay in Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Duiguid Christian of Grand Rapids, Michigan; Dr. W. A. Thornhill, of Charleston, W. Va.; Mr. Tom Thornhill, of Arkansas City, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. James, of Roanoke, Va.; attended the funeral of Mr. A. B. Thornhill.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells had for dinner Sunday from a distance Mr. and Mrs. Hooley, Mrs. S. R. Irven, Miss Joyes Irven, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Cash, Virginia and Mr. Earl Cash, all of Lynchburg.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dixon went horse-back to the peach orchard Wednesday on top of Spear's Mt. It is a lovely place up there—so much to see.

Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Moore and children motored to Lynchburg and visited relatives recently.

Mr. John H. Moore and bride and Miss Lucindie spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Moore.

News reached Mrs. W. A. Wells today that her cousin, Mr. John Harvey had gone crazy and was taken to Staunton Saturday. We all know Mr. Harvey and the family has our sympathy.

Mrs. Louis Harris has been called to the bed side of her little brother, Reed Spiggle, near Gladstone, who is very ill with typhoid fever.

Mr. and Mrs. Adkin Baldwin and two sons, of Pamplin, spent the week-end with her home people here.

Mr. Royal Wells is out again after a spell of sickness.

Mr. Road boss a sign board is needed badly at forks of road on top of Weil's hill. Seldom a day that someone does not ask which road to Appomattox. It will be much appreciated by the public if a sign board is put there.

HISTORY IS TAUGHT BY MUMMY FAMILY

Scientists Study Remains of Ancient Egyptians.

Detroit.—A family of Egyptian mummies 3,000 years dead are teaching history to a little group of studious Detroiters.

They are telling curious and amazing things about themselves and others of their kind, who walked the earth ten centuries before the beginning of the Christian era, relating strange facts, revealing long sought mysteries, bringing to life again a splendid civilization that vanished generations ago.

Dr. S. Edward Sanderson, Detroit physician, and Benjamin March, curator of Asiatic arts in the Detroit Museum of Art, have joined forces in the study of the mummies. Doctor Sanderson has called upon the X-ray to aid him in his search for further knowledge of these silent spokesmen of the past and March brings a complete and thorough knowledge of the artistic side of ancient Egypt, to aid in the undertaking.

Possibilities Endless.

This is an exceedingly novel and original experiment and both men insist that they have accomplished very little in spite of their intensive studies. Both believe, however, that the possibilities of the venture are endless, and express the hope that something of great value may some day come out of the undertaking.

"If we are to know and understand the men and women of the present, we must know something of those who lived in the past," Doctor Sanderson says. "If we took away all the knowledge we have acquired from our study of dead races and vanished peoples we would be very ignorant indeed.

"Egyptian mummies are especially interesting to study because Egypt was the great melting pot 3,000 years ago. We can prove this racially. The Egyptian was a masterful man.

"Some of the mummies are so perfectly preserved that it is still possible to detect the presence of food in the stomachs of the children and to tell something of their diet. We find grains, an old form of millet and delicate bits of young mice."

Two passive bodies lie still and quiet upon the dissecting tables in the dim museum but even in their silence and immobility they give up many secrets in response to the probings of skilled scientific fingers, the searching eye of powerful X-ray machine.

Brain Tissues Removed.

March describes the procedure of an Egyptian burial. The embalming of the body so perfectly that today, after the lapse of centuries, the bones, the muscles and sometimes the skin are to be seen. The vital organs were removed and placed in four receptacles, each guarded by its particular god and so placed that it would be easy for the whole body to reassemble itself when the time came to enter into a new life.

The X-ray has accomplished one thing of definite value. It has demonstrated the method by which the brain tissues were removed from the head without breaking the skull. Three openings through the nostrils are now believed to have freed the brain substances which were placed in their designated canopic jars.

It has long been assumed by many scientists that this was the method, but it needed the X-ray to reveal it by undisputed actuality. The X-ray plates which demonstrate this method will be loaned to the University of Michigan for class room study.

Holland Turning From Wind to Electricity

The Hague.—Electricity is playing a rapidly increasing part in the industrial life of Holland, as it is being found that, in spite of their picturesque character, windmills are falling very much behind in their output capacity. The capital for financing conversions from wind power to electrical power and for creating electrical power for other purposes is not always available and, therefore, an international finance corporation has been founded, with a capital of 10,000,000 florins, at Amsterdam.

The holders of this capital are Pheehl and Gutmann and Teixeira de Mattos of Amsterdam; Chase Securities corporation and Speyer & Company of New York; Dresdner bank and Darmstadter and National bank of Berlin, and Hambros bank, London.

Activity will not be restricted to Holland, although the idea and the central organization have originated here, but will be spread wherever there is need of capital for electrical enterprises. It is possible that shares in electrical undertakings will be purchased, but the chief aim is to be able to supply loan capital of either a permanent or temporary character.

HALF-HEARTED Never Felt Well

"I don't see why women will drag around, in a half-hearted way, never feeling well, barely able to drag, when Cardui might help put them on their feet, as it did me," says Mrs. Geo. S. Hunter, of Columbus, Ga.

"I suffered with dreadful pains in my sides. I had to go to bed and stay sometimes two weeks. "I could not work, and just dragged around the house.

"I got very thin. I went from a hundred and twenty-six pounds down to less than a hundred.

"I sent to the store for Cardui, and before I had taken the first bottle I began to improve. My side hurt less, and I began to mend in health.

"Cardui acted as a fine tonic. I do not feel like the same person. I am well now, and still gaining." For sale by druggists, everywhere. Give it a trial.

L. E. SMITH

Miss Lois Lucado has returned home after a visit to News Ferry, Oak Level and Halifax Virginia.

The heavy rain and wind-storm this week has damaged crops right much in this county.

Before the board R. L. Burke, treasurer, settled his account and took credit for $4,489.79 for accounts paid since last settlement.

New road approved from Mrs. Lula Howerton's to Petty's Fork school.

C. W. Smith and Duvall Connor have purchased of C. S. McDearmon the latter's lot in Fleshman addition.

Miss Ruby Torrence, of Danville, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Torrence, this week. She will also visit her brother in Hopewell.

J. W. Meadow, now of Illinois, speaks of coming to this county to hold an evangelist meeting. Mr. Meadows used to live in this county and enjoyed the confidence of our people.

Mrs. Elliott Cheatham and daughter, Mary Frances, left Sunday for Florida, after spending the summer with her parents here. They are at Jacksonville where the storm was not so severe.

Victor Madison and Alfred Hopkins, two negro highway robbers, were given eight years each in the penitentiary at Prince Edward Court last week. These negroes will be brought here for trial for robberies committed in this county and will be tried at the October term of court.

Dr. Meade Ferguson is organizing the old Grange in Virginia and last week organized a lodge at Stonewall and Saturday he organized one at Rice. It is useful for the farmers to maintain some kind of farm organization at all times and the Grange is probably the oldest organization of its kind in existence.

The handsome home on Appomattox river of the late Julian C. Shaeffer has been sold to a Chicago gentleman and we understand that Mrs. Schaeffer and her daughter will move to Florida. Mr. Wimpler, the purchaser, expects to raise horses and have a hunting reserve.

ROCKS NEWS

Miss Alice Ransom, of Lynchburg, visited her mother last week-end.

The Harmony school children are going to Pamplin school on the bus this term.

NOTICE

Hon. H. St. George Tucker will address the voters of Appomattox county at the Courthouse Monday, October 1st, at 12 m.

A. B. Thornhill

A. B. Thornhill died at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, at 7 o'clock Sunday morning in the 67th year of his age.

Mr. Thornhill was representative in the state legislature from this county at one time and was state food and dairy commissioner. He was president of the State Farmer's Union for some time and served as supervisor from Stonewalldis trict for a long time.

The following brothers and sisters survive: Rev. L. R. Thornhill, of Washington; Thomas J. Thornhill, of Kansas City, Mo.; C. W. Thornhill, of Bent Creek; Mrs. E. C. James, of Roanoke, and Mrs. D. A. Christian, of Appomottox.

Funeral services were held from his home at Tower Hill yesterday.

In Memoriam

In sad but loving remembrance of our darling Ruth Gardner who fell asleep in Jesus one year ago today, September 20, 1927.

You are gone dear Ruth but not forgotten
Fresh our love will ever be.
For as long as we have life and memory
We will always think of thee.
God called you home it was His will
But in our hearts we love you still,
Your memory is as dear today
Darling as it was when you passed away.
We love you dear Ruth with all our hearts
But Jesus loved you best,
He took you from this sinful earth
To set your soul at rest.

For horse racing, auto racing, high-class vaudeville, fireworks and entertainment generally Lynchburg Fair claims to be second to none and has a program this year which is costing more actual money than four or five ordinary fairs will spend. The fair will be held Sept. 25, 26, 27 and 28. As the entry books close Friday, September 21st, not delay, but send entries at once. Over $5,000 in premiums.

Those who come from the country will find every convenience for their comfort and they can come when they choose, stay as long as they want and go when they get ready. Lynchburg Fair has been frequently pronounced by secretaries, showmen and race horse owners to be the best fair in Virginia outside of Richmond. Its grounds, with abundant shade trees, beautiful lawns and commodious buildings, are kept in condition the entire year, and the fair is a pleasant spot to enjoy a picnic and spend the day.

Entry books are now open, but will close September 21. Reduced rates on all railroads.

NOTICE

I desire to let my friends and the public know that I will be with the Planter's Warehouse, Farmville, this season and will be glad to have my Appomattox friends call.

Worshipers Bothered

Members of the congregation of the Scotch church in Georgetown, British Guiana, are compelled to use fans in church during the heated season, men as well as women being kept busy fanning. During the wet season the church was invaded by black beetles to such an extent that they put an end to the services until they were removed forcibly with brushes and shovels.

CAMEL PROFITABLE FOR NEW YORK ZOO

Carries Children and Has Earned Much Money.

New York.—Mogul, the white dromedary camel (camelus dromedarius), who is eight years old and weighs 1,000 pounds, is the only self-supporting member of the Bronx Zoological garden family. Few of the thousands of rare animals in the zoo contribute much else besides their presence to their board and lodging. This camel is a grand mogul of finance as well as an ilama.

The method Mogul employs in earning his fodder is to play taxi for the thousands of little children who daily come to the zoological park.

His keeper used to allow the little tots to climb up and take rides at will, but demands for a camel walk with Mogul became so great that park officials had to devise some means of dispensing the sharpy fellow's popularity.

Carries Six Youngsters.

Mogul carries six kiddies at a time on the two-sided Irish Jaunting seat which was rigged up to fit his single dromedary hump. The charge is ten cents and hundreds ride weekly. Mogul operates from May to September, resting on Mondays. The other seven months he vacations in the antelope house.

The sway-backed giant has had an unique military career in the antipodes. Several years ago, before coming to New York, he was honorably discharged from the British army. He was in the Anzac transportation forces over the desert lands of Australia. Mogul, however, is a native of northern Africa.

William T. Cully, Mogul's keeper, said that his charge in three years had earned between three and five thousand dollars for the zoo. He cost $1,000, and seems to have paid for himself several times over.

Goes Without Water.

Mogul is a vegetarian, and in true camel fashion, has been known to stay off the water wagon for eight days running. His two toenails on each foot have to be manicured about once a month by the keeper. This leisurely camel has an amiable disposition and plods about all day, chewing his cud and occasionally giving vent to his camel chuckle, which sounds like some one gargling water.

At night, after a profitable day, Mogul goes to bed under his haunches and retires comfortably on his nature provided, skin padded stock absorbers.

Mogul has proven a good investment, and a considerable clientele patronize his cantering delights when their parents bring them to the zoo. Allen, the ape chimpanzee, was his only rival until she was retired from passenger service two years ago.

FARMERS ARE BUSY UP IN NEW ENGLAND

Get Tourists' Money by Roadside Enterprise.

Portland, Maine.—The New England farmer, long hiding his gift for advertising, has kicked over the well-known bucket and set his light on the highway. There it shines in fantastic fashion, illuminating a new order of agriculture.

Its outward garb is an elaborate system of signs, picturesque placards and posters, that swamp the road-weary traveler. They fairly shriek the excellence of roadside comestibles. Artistic, grotesque or merely present, they strive for a common end—assiduous harvesting of the tourist crop.

And the avidity with which the rural Easterner attends to business attests the efficacy of his art as an advertiser. From dawn until long after dark, hand and, often, steadied the plow handle cut eager circles with the handle of a gas pump. Voices that once cajoled the sweat-decked and recalcitrant steed now vent their persuasive power on the stranger who seeks rest and refreshment.

Why sweltter through a midsummer day in the hayfield, argues the farmer with profitable materialism, when the passing throng clamors to shed ready cash for buttermilk and watermelons?

Each year finds increasingly large numbers of farmers branching out into roadside enterprises. The ingenuity that formerly went into wrestling with the routine of the Pilgrim now is called upon to halt and hold the prospective patron of country eatin's.

So large that those who speed may read, so ambitious in design, and so heroic in expression that none pass unnoticed, the farmers' "ads" lure the hungry, the tired and the merely curious with inescapable appeal.

Japanese Railways Give Women Employees Vote

Tokyo.—The first step toward the realization of woman suffrage in Japan was taken recently by the Imperial government railways. The officials decided to grant all employees, regardless of sex, who are more than eighteen years old, the right to vote for the election of members of the railway committee on improvement and treatment of employees.

Although this is limited to those employed on the railways, suffrage leaders are of the opinion that it will have a favorable influence on the country and that it will not be many years before nation-wide suffrage has been achieved.

There are approximately 10,000 women employees of the railways who will vote for the first time in their lives. Up to the present only male employes, a twenty years old or over have been entitled to vote in the committee elections.

Needle Imbedded in Man's Heart Is Taken Out

Buffalo, N. Y.—Morgan Downey, twenty, is recovering in a hospital here after an operation for removal of a gold-tipped needle imbedded in his heart.

In the operation an opening was cut in the chest wall and the sac protecting the heart was opened. With his fingers the doctor was able to touch the tip of the needle in the back of the heart when the organ contracted.

It required 75 minutes to gain a firm hold and dislodge the needle.

The needle was in the mattress of Downey's bed and in some manner pierced him. Downey attempted to pry it out but instead forced the sharp silver of steel further into his body.

Subsequent examinations showed the heart in its contractions had drawn the needle further into itself.
